HOLD STORMY HEARING

Interesting Report of Testimony
Taken in Session Which Lasted Until Eleven O'Clock Wednesday Night.[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison, Feb. 6.—The senate in regular session today upon motion of Senator Bosshard will hold over until tonight the confirmation of L. A.
Anderson's appointment as insurance commissioner and the committee as a whole is expected to have its report ready by that time.Senator Kellen secured the passage of his bill relating to the term
of court in the seventh district.
Governor McGovern's clerk, C. Wilbur, testified before the senate today
in the Ekm controversy that the governor had no particular choice for the speaker, but that he opposed Johnson and Goff on the grounds that they were personally hostile to him.
Mr. Wilbur further stated that Assemblyman Nye was not the governor's candidate as the newspapers listed him and that the governor had not solicited support for any candidate in particular.Anderson Testifies.
Lewis A. Anderson, McGovern's
appointee to succeed Ekm, testified that he was being considered for appointment when he was requested by telephone to come to the governor's office."The governor was alone," he said.
"He told me he had removed Ekm and was appointing me as commissioner, and that if he did, it would be distinctly understood that I should keep the department out of politics.
I said I would accept the position on no other basis."The second surrounding Governor McGovern's order of dismissal against Insurance Commissioner Herman L.
Ekm were read before the senate
of Wisconsin sitting as a committee of the whole yesterday afternoon and evening. Questioning by Ekm's attorney, John A. Aylward, and several senators brought from Arthur F. Bel-itz, assistant revisor of the statutes,
the admission that he drafted the form of the dismissal order, and that he did so after 10:30 a. m. on Jan. 8, the morning when the governor gave Ekm a hearing on the subject of Ekm's alleged political activity.Advised A Hearing.
Belitz also testified that with Fred
M. Wilcox, the governor's legal agent, he consulted with the executive on the latter's power to remove, and advised that a hearing be given Ekm. He did not recall that he gave a "full and complete" hearing, which Senator Randolph wanted to know."Senator Belitz inquired whether it was not the custom for orders and verdicts to be drawn up in advance,
and whether attorneys do not also do
the same thing. This was admitted, and Senator Bosshard, an Ekm adherent, inferring that in this case the governor had sat as a judge over Ekm."Responding to a question by Senator Linsley, Belitz said he advised the governor as to how much evidence was sufficient to form a judgment of guilt.
Miss Mary Sims, the governor's stenographer, the first witness, dis-claimed connection with the preparation of the dismissal order. Miss Ingrid Johnson, another executive stenographer, admitted typewriting it, and leaving a blank space for filling in the time of service in ink.Johnson's Statement.
Frank Clark, reporter for the Madison Democrat, testified to receiving from Executive Clerk Wilbur, the statement before a statement giving the governor's ultimatum on Ekm, and substantiated reports thereof printed the next day.Assemblyman L. L. Johnson, speakership candidate for whose friendship Ekm was accused of violating the law under which he was appointed commissioner, testified he made a small campaign, that he spent about $10, that he filed no financial statement as a campaign committee, that he had no campaign committee, no manager, and that he considered it an act of courtesy by Ekm in engaging headquarters for him at a local hotel,
and not as the act of a political manager.Prior to the examination of witnesses, Attorney M. B. Olbrich, for Ekm, read the complete record of the hearing before the governor on Jan. 8.
This consumed over an hour.The senate recessed at 7:30 to resume the hearing.Late In Adjoining.
Just as Senator Browne was seeking to learn from Mr. Aylward whether the democrats had not violated the corrupt practices act by making expenditures with no funds to meet them, Senator Randolph, democrat, moved to adjourn. It carried. Prior to this, Aylward was questioning Harry C. Wilbur, executive clerk, as to the probability of complaint by him against the governor in case it was found that the governor had violated the law in certifying to campaign expenses. He exhibited the governor's expense account, handing it to Wilbur for his examination, when Browne switched the subject to the democratic financial straits. Finally, shortly before 11 P. M., Randolph's motion resulted in adjournment until morning.Wilbur testified that he learned of the hiring of Johnson's headquarters through statements by Ekm in the governor's presence. In detail he recounted the McGovern-Ekm interview on the evening of inauguration day. Many sharp exchanges with the attorney varied the course of the examination.Ekm Questioned.
Ekm was on the stand for an hour.

TO RAISE THEIR PAYAssemblyman Rosa Will Come to Rescue of County Board Members With Bill on Salary
Question.[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Feb. 6.—Members of county boards may be empowered to increase the salaries of the members of succeeding county boards
if the Rosa motion for reconsideration of the Hanson bill prevails. On Tuesday the Hanson bill was killed by a close vote. This measure gave county boards the power to fix their own salaries. Under no circumstances was their per-diem to exceed $5. The rate fixed by the present law is $3 per day. The objection to the bill was that it would allow any county board to fix its own salary. This was considered dangerous precedent. Assemblyman Rosa of Beloit has asked for a reconsideration of the vote by which the measure was slaughtered. He will then offer a substitute bill. This will provide that present county boards may fix the salaries of incoming county boards.Assemblyman Hurlbut will present his bill early next week providing for a commission form of government in counties. The measure is optional and permits a county board to submit the question to the voters of the people. It is understood that a bill will be offered by one of the democratic members intending to make the commission form of government in counties compulsory. Both of these measures will be referred to the committee on state affairs of which Assemblyman Axel Johnson is chairman.ROCHESTER GARMENT
WORKERS ARRESTEDProprietor of Clothing Shop Charged With Murder and Other Men
Are Held for Rioting.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 6.—Five leaders of the garment workers' strike
are under arrest today charged with inciting riots. Valentin Sallier, proprietor of a clothing shop is also in prison on the charge of first degree murder. The arrests followed an attack on Sallier's shop last night when Ida Berman, one of the strikers, was killed by the discharge of a shotgun into the crowd fired by the strikers. Eight strikers were injured, but all of them will recover. This morning the strikers and the manufacturers expressed their willingness to meet and bring their difficulties to an end.PATIENTS IN DANGER
IN SANITARIUM FIREFlames Destroy Bath-House of Wau-wautosa Hospital and Entire City Turns Out to Fight Flames.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 6.—Three women patients were forced to flee from the building, two women were carried out on stretchers and one was overcome by smoke while one-half of the town of Wauwautosa organized a bucket brigade to fight
the fire which destroyed the bath-house of the women's department of the sanitarium near here early today. Although the bucket fighters worked valiantly in the cold temperature of the morning, the fire from clothes became coated with ice from the water which was spilled and the Milwaukee fire department responded promptly. The fire fighters were unable to save the structure which collapsed. The loss is estimated at $200,000. The twenty-five patients in the building were rescued without injury.AGITATION TO ESTABLISH CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 6.—A constitutional amendment may be proposed to introduce capital punishment in Wisconsin. An attempt to have members of the legislature take up the subject is proposed in literature received by practically every member indicating that crime is lessened wherever it is adopted. As the edict prohibiting capital punishment in this state is a part of the state constitution, an amendment would have to be approved by two successive sessions of the legislature and by a vote of the people at a general election."In Michigan the number of murders immediately doubled," says the literature of the Civic Alliance of Boston mailed to legislators. "The increase was from 16 in a period of six months
time before abolition to 32 in the same length of time after forty years.
In Iowa the resulting crime was sufficient argument to cause the reenactment of the law in 1878. In Colorado abolition resulted in lynch law.
The burning of the murderer at the stake, with oil poured over his body,
the match being applied by the murdered girl's father, and two other lynchings, resulted in the return to capital punishment."MAY HAVE RESCUED CREW

crew of the Norwegian bark "Remit-tent," abandoned off the Azores, January 19th, may be safe on the steamship Simerieto which sailed from Newport News, January 1st, for Naples. It was reported that Simerieto in passing Gibraltar on January 19th, had signalled she had on board the crew of the Remittent.WISCONSIN BLACKS DISAPPROVE OF LAWWhich Would Prohibit Marriage of Negroes and White in This State.Madison, Wis., Feb. 6.—The Stewart
bill prohibiting the marriage of blacks
and whites is meeting with sharp disapproval from the colored contingent of Wisconsin. The Booker Washington Men's Forum of Milwaukee has petitioned the members of the legislature against the proposed law branding it as a vicious attempt at class legislation contrary to the political and civil economy of our republican institutions. Assemblyman T. A. Stewart declares that he introduced the measure to prevent any marriages
"like that of Jack Johnson and the Cameron girl.""A legal barrier cannot effectually check amalgamation," writes Rev. J.
Wood of St. Mark A. M. E. Church of Milwaukee to the members. "There will be amalgamation among the races in spite of any law. It is therefore far better from a moral and social viewpoint to let the matter be regulated by individual choice rather than
by unconstitutional enactment."IMMIGRATION BILL CAUSE FOR PROTESTEuropean Nations Claim Sovereign Rights on Their Vessels Would Be Violated by Measure.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Feb. 6.—When President Taft gave hearing today upon the new immigration bill he also had before him protests from Germany, Italy and the Netherlands against the provision which authorizes the secretary of commerce and labor to place inspectors, matrons and public service surgeons aboard immigration
ships to report to American immigration authorities upon the condition
and treatment of immigrants enroute.
Another protest from Australia is said to be on the way, and intimation has been received that France and England will also join in the protests. All protesting nations are said to regard this provision as an infringement on their sovereignty over their ships on high seas and infringing upon the faith of the officials in execution of the immigration laws. Many prominent Jews arrived here today to protest to the president against certain features of the bill.President Taft heard the protests
in the East room of the White House.
He allowed each side one and a half hours. Senators O'Gorman and Root, Secretary Nugle, Representatives Roberts, Thayer, Kahn, Shabback and Kurely and Julius Rosenberg of Chicago and Louis Marshall of New York were among the one hundred or more of those present. It requires a very strong showing to induce the executive to override the action of both houses of Congress.Harry Oleson, chief justice of the Chicago Municipal court representing citizens of Scandinavian descent spoke relative to the bill. "More important than the literacy test," he declared,
"is the Wassermark test of the blood."
E. S. Katzenbach of Trenton, N. J., representing the Senior order of American mechanics, said the best argument in favor of the bill was that the United States had within the last four months passed a measure in the same form with practically two thirds vote.
He contended that it would keep out those persons who would not be desirable citizens and would bring in a better class. Representative Murley of Massachusetts presented a petition bearing 500,000 signatures of American citizens who opposed the bill.TAFT URGES BUILDING
OF ALASKAN RAILWAYS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Feb. 6.—Alaska's vast resources can best be brought within the reach of the world, in the opinion of President Taft, by the construction of two railways, the government assisting. Ownership shall be vested in the government but will be operated by the private parties under lease.
In a special message to congress upon the report of the Alaskan railway commission, the president today strongly urged the work along these lines.CUT IN STEERAGE RATE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 6.—The assembly committee on agriculture will hear all bills for re-locating the state

made today by John Chinnock, chairman of the committee. The fight before the committee will be centered on the September bill which provides for a location of the fair elsewhere, but leaves it to a committee to decide the problem of location.It is said that Wausau will send a delegation here to urge that the fair be moved to that city, without going through the process of having a committee select a site. Mr. Carpenter claims that the present fair grounds in Milwaukee would sell for an amount sufficient to buy a new site in some miles from Green Bay, at five o'clock this morning by flames. They were forced to go out in the cold clad in their night clothes and marched to the gymnasium. The fire was discovered by one of the students, who awoke and smelled smoke. He spread the alarm. As the fire was confined to the walls of the building,

it was difficult to fight and the volunteer fire department worked for about an hour. The loss is about $300, covered by insurance.GRAND RAPIDS MAN

surgeon of this city, was found dead
on the railroad right of way near Port Edwards early this morning,
death apparently having been caused by exposure. This body was found in a frozen condition. It is supposed that he was on his way home and fell, the fall probably stunning him
and due to the extreme cold weather,
he froze to death.Your Appearance

being consumed in Western North Da-

taken by the state legislature to halt
this destruction of the state's natural resources. Evidence regarding the de-

as the time of the Lewis and Clark expedition, while old residents declare that many of the bluffs, smoldering lignite beds, have been smoldering ever since they came to this territory.
Miners claim that the fires can be

1912? This is the question which a jury will soon decide.
Beach denies the assault. The principal witness for the state is a colored maid of Mrs. Beach.Beach took the stand and corroborated the story told by her husband. Beach did not depart materially from the tale he has told since the attack,
that his wife was attacked by a negro
when she went out with her dog
from the cottage. Mrs. Beach appeared on the stand with a brown
skirt, a low neck white shirt waist and a plain black hat. Her face was flushed with excitement.ESCAPED CONVICT ATTENDS

DAUGHTER OF CITY'S FIRST MAYOR DEAD

Miss Minnie C. Smith Passed Away at Her Home, 201 Terrace Street, Early This Morning.
Miss Minnie C. Smith, daughter of the late A. Hyatt Smith, the first mayor of Jansville, and Ann M. C. Smith, died at her home, 201 Terrace street, early this morning, following a stroke of paralysis. Miss Smith was born in New York city in 1841 and came to Jansville with her parents the following year. The first home of the family was on North Bluff street, on the site now occupied by the German Lutheran church. The family were members of the Episcopal church and when Trinity church was organized in 1844 Miss Smith's father was chosen as one of the vestrymen and he later donated the lot upon which the church building stands. A Hyatt Smith also built the Hyatt House at the corner of Franklin and West Milwaukee streets. This hotel, which was reputed the finest west of Milwaukee, at the time of its construction, burned to the ground in 1866.

Surviving Miss Smith are a brother, J. Maurice Smith, with whom she made her home; a sister, Mrs. Charles H. Patterson; four nieces and two nephews. She was a faithful, earnest, and devout member of Trinity church and was an active worker in the different departments of parish work. She made many self-denials in order to have time to attend to either the church services or some duty connected with the organizations to which she belonged. Miss Smith was treasurer of St. Agnes Guild for many years, a member of the Altar Guild, and Choir Mother. Her chief pleasure was to care for the altar and sanctuary, and many were her labors of love, unknown and unheeded by many. Her annual outing was to go camping with the choir, but in recent years failing strength prevented her accompanying them. Always present at the church services and faithful in the performance of her many duties she will be missed by all in the parish. The funeral will take place from Trinity church on Saturday morning at ten o'clock.

MISS JULIA LOVEJOY ELECTED TO OFFICE

Jansville Young Woman Named Corresponding Secretary of New State Suffrage Association.
Miss Julia Lovejoy of this city has been elected to the position of corresponding secretary of the new Wisconsin organization of the Wisconsin suffragists in their meeting at Madison. Miss Lovejoy has been prominently interested in the suffrage work in Jansville and Rock county and was especially enthusiastic in the campaign work last fall. Her selection to this important position in the state suffrage work is undoubtedly a wise one. Miss J. W. Laughlin of this city was chairman of the nominating committee. The other officers of the association have been named as follows: Honorary president, the Rev. Olympia Brown, Racine; president, Mrs. Henry Youmans, Waukesha; executive secretary, Miss Ada James, Richland Center; first vice president, Miss Zona Gale, Portage; second vice president, Dr. Jean M. Cook, Darlington; recording secretary, Mrs. H. H. Hutton, Milwaukee; Mrs. E. M. Fuller, Madison; members at large of the executive board, Mrs. Mary Scott Johnson, Superior; Mrs. Y. V. Drentzer, Sturgeon Bay; Mrs. H. A. J. Upham, Milwaukee. The following Wisconsin suffragists have signed their intention of joining in the Washington inaugural parade: Miss Lucie Starnes, Milwaukee; Miss Harriet Bain, Kenosha; Mrs. C. A. Hooke, Milwaukee; Mrs. Crystal Eastman Benedict, Milwaukee; Col. Watrous, Milwaukee; Mrs. Henry Youmans, Waukesha; Mrs. E. Donald-Jones, Mt. Horeb; Mrs. Crosby, and Mrs. Rex McCreery, Green Bay.

SMOKE ORDINANCE IS SOON IN FORCE

Takes Effect on Friday, February 14—Several Furnace Operators Must Hasten to Comply.
Jansville's new anti-smoke ordinance declaring the emission of dense, heavy, or black smoke in such quantity as to cause a deposit of soot or cinders or any other substance to be a nuisance will be in effect on Friday, February 14, one week from tomorrow. At the present time there are a number of furnace operators responsible for maintaining such a nuisance and they will have to make radical changes in their mode of firing, in the quality of the coal used, or in their furnaces if they are not to be prosecuted for violation of the new ordinance. This is so drawn as to apply to whomsoever is responsible, whether it be the owner, lessee, or tenant of a building. The minimum penalty for violation is $5, and the maximum penalty $25. The terms of the ordinance are much less drastic than those of most cities having such ordinances.

PARKER PEN COMPANY HAS NEW YORK STORE

George S. Parker Rents One of the New Stores in Famous Woolworth Building.
George S. Parker, president of the Parker Pen Company of this city, who returned from New York, Tuesday of this week, rented one of the ground floor stores in the famous Woolworth building for show rooms and retail store for his products. This building is the highest in the world and rises 750 feet above the sidewalk. It is in all fifty-seven stories high and cost approximately $13,500,000 to construct. It has a floor area of 27 acres and thirty elevators. It is located in the downtown center of New York's business district and towers high above all the surrounding structures. The Parker Pen Company's store is directly at the left of the main entrance and while it does not cost a hundred dollars a minute rent it runs up into the thousands by the year.

CREAMERY IS TOTAL LOSS IN BAD FIRE

William Klusmeyer, Near Evansville, Has $3,500 Loss When Structure Burns Wednesday Night.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Cainville Center, Feb. 6.—Fire totally destroyed the creamery owned and operated by William Klusmeyer on his farm in North Magnolia, three miles northwest of this place and about the same distance southeast of Evansville, Wednesday evening. The building was discovered in a mass of flames at nine-thirty o'clock and was then past all control. The building and all the equipment was destroyed the loss being estimated at $3,500. Insurance amounts to some $1,500. The cause of the fire is unknown although it is thought that it must have started from the stove or a defective chimney. Mr. Klusmeyer had a large milk and butter business which he had built up in the last three or four years. He may rebuild the creamery this spring.

TO CONDUCT EFFICIENCY TEST OF STEAM TURBINE DYNAMO

R. H. Johnson of Galesburg, Ill., S. H. Harrison of La Crosse, W. H. M. Eachorn of Rockford, Ill., and Philip Korst of this city, all students at the University of Wisconsin, are installing apparatus in the boiler room of the Jansville Electric company's plant to be used in making an efficiency test of the big 500 kilowatt steam turbine generator installed last summer. A large part of the class to which the young men belong will come down later to witness the test. They have bought a rotary pump and condenser from the varsity, with which to carry on the turbine test. They have about completed the preliminary work for the testing of the big turbine. They will also make a thorough test of the coal used as to quality and energy that it gives. Tests will also be made as to the fine gas, steam and efficiency of the two boilers of the plant. The work is being done during the semester examinations and the students hope to finish in the near future. The work is being done in a thorough manner and they are doing this work to obtain a practical knowledge of their studies for thesis.

FOOD SOURING? STOMACH SICK, GASSY? BOWELS AREN'T ACTIVE? CASCARETS SURE

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases, that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and is full of sour bile—your liver is torpid—your bowels constipated. It isn't your stomach's fault—it isn't indigestion—it's biliousness and constipation. Try Cascarets; they immediately sour, undigested and fermenting food from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret tonight straightens you out by morning.

Today's Edgerton News

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Edgerton, Feb. 6.—After an illness of several weeks, Mrs. Mary Louise Carl died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Scardiff, early Wednesday morning, February 5. The deceased had been sick for some time with pneumonia and was slowly on the gain when a relapse set in, causing brain fever. Every thing was done to relieve the patient of her sufferings, but human skill was unavailing. Mrs. Louise Carl was born the sixth day of August, 1886. She was united in marriage to Theodore Carl, November 5, 1901. To this union one child was born, a little girl. Funeral services will be held at 1:30 Friday afternoon at the home.

He told of speaking with two or three assemblymen about the speakership fight, and read a letter he wrote to Assemblyman Douglas Anderson of Rhineland in which he referred to the loss of organization being drawn. He referred to Johnson's campaign as doing well, or words to that effect. He said he did not ask support for Johnson. Senator Burke asked if he knew the injunction papers were drawn up in advance, and he replied he supposed so, anticipating that an attempt might be made to dispossess him from the office. Senator Kilean asked why he had said that members of the legislature could not be both for Senator La Follette and for Governor McGovern. The answer was that it was common knowledge that a disaffection existed that the governor had caused offense at Chicago, and that he (McGovern) had not been satisfied with the kind of support La Follette gave McGovern on the stump in the last campaign, being displeased with some of the senator's speeches. Questions by Senator Bossard drew the information that Ekern had talked over the national situation with McGovern prior to the last campaign, that the governor spoke then about the Wisconsin delegation coming out for Roosevelt, and that McGovern inquired as to the advisability of the delegation turning to Roosevelt as second choice for the republican nomination for president. To this Ekern said he answered that such action would be equivalent to putting La Follette out of the race. Ekern said La Follette reported McGovern in the last state campaign, but that he was never criticised by the governor for political activity. Randolph asked Ekern as to other appointments of the governor doing political work. Ekern said he had little personal knowledge, except that Assemblyman Nye, member of the grain and warehouse commission, was active as a speakership candidate and that he was a McGovern worker.

Rosa Gives Conversation.
Judge C. D. Rosa, assemblyman from Beloit, related his conversation with Ekern in which they referred to the speakership fight. He was in Madison then in the interest of Goff's candidacy. Ekern spoke of the "fight" being on, the lines being drawn, and there was no middle ground. Rosa said he told Ekern he proposed not to take sides as between La Follette and McGovern, that Senator La Follette was one of the greatest constructive statesmen in the country, and that McGovern was making a good progressive governor, and that he hoped the governor's work would not be hampered by political differences. He said Goff also was friendly to both men. He told Ekern he was sorry disagreement or personal quarrels existed between the two.

Assemblyman Fred L. Holmes of Madison testified he took no active interest in the speakership fight, and that he visited Ekern's office daily as a newspaper man. Deputy Commissioner George E. Beedle testified briefly also.

"Trouble-Maker Anyway."
When the senate resumed the hearing at 7:30 last night, Assistant Revisor of the statutes Belitz was recalled. He underwent a sharp cross examination by Attorney Ayward and various senators of the Ekern faction. He said in answer to questions that he looked up the law on the governor's power of removal and advised the governor he would have to act before 12 o'clock noon on the day the legislature opened. He told of writing the draft of the removal order and handing it to the governor's stenographer for typewriting. This was about 10:30 A. M., he said, and the order was probably typewritten by 11, he supposed. The removal order was served at 11:50 A. M. The object of this line of examination by the attorney was to prove that the governor had the order made out in advance. Belitz said he sometimes advised the governor and Senator Wilcox, the governor's legal adviser, through an arrangement by which he assisted the latter to pass upon new laws before receiving the governor's signature. He admitted that courts sometimes prepare orders in advance for convenience but denied the governor sat as a court over Ekern and denied it was a legal proceeding on a level with proceedings in courts of law. Belitz said: "The governor said he believed Ekern would make trouble anyway, and he would have to suspend him on account of the trouble he would probably make."

Two old Scots were going home one night after a convivial session at a public house. The air was in the traditional manner as immortalized by Bobby Burns. Fearing trouble ahead as the light in the distant cottage window became apparent, Sandy said to Donald,
"Donald, I'll walk ahead of ye, and ye tell if I'm walking stree aaneht!"
Donald watched Sandy carefully, and then remarked:
"Sandy, mon, ye're walkin' fine; but who's that drunken loafer with ye?"

A little boy was advised by his father to use illustrations in his conversation whenever they should occur to him.
"For," continued the parent "there is no more forcible way of conveying or impressing your meaning."
Shortly after, the boy was being lectured on generosity.
"It's better to give than to receive."
"Illustrate it, papa, I think I shall understand it better."
"It is the fashion in England to attach to houses names, that in many instances are absurd or misleading—as 'Applecot,' here the only trees are first; but fitness and humor sometimes govern the choice. A retired Indian civil servant, on his return to England, yielded to his wife's importunities, and said that she might have a new house. "But mind," he emphasized, "it must not cost above three thousand pounds." It cost double that amount, as houses have a way of doing, and when it came time to name the place the owner had considerable fine masculine feeling to put into it; so, not wholly in memory of India, he called it "Mysore Place."

Horman Schaefer and Nirk, Altrock, the comedians of the American league who are connected with the Washington club, are beginning to worry lest Ban Johnson will refuse to permit them to pull off their funny stuff at the games in 1913. "Of course, Nick and I will have some new stunts," remarked Schaefer the other day, "and if we can get Ban Johnson property it is quite possible that we will depict the stabbing of Julius Caesar or some other event equally as dramatic. Nick would be Caesar while I would play the double role of Brutus and Cassius. I hate to tip off our advance plans, but if we can get away with something like this it ought to go big."

George Rohe, who held a big place in the limelight in 1906 when he beat the Chicago Cubs out of a world's series in the White Sox games, is getting a little deeper in the mire of oblivion. Rohe is now ticketed to leave the New Orleans club of the Southern league.

A HUNDRED ROOTERS COMING FROM BELOIT

Local High School Gymnasium Will be Crowded With Enthusiastic Students for Friday's Game.

(By "Scoop.") Tomorrow night the local basketball five from the high school will clash with the strong Beloit five, in the local school gymnasium. The game will take place after supper and will begin early so that the polo game at the rink, will not interfere with those wishing to witness both contests. The Beloit team will be accompanied by their school band, and about 100 rooters, who will charter one or possibly two private cars over the inter-urban route. The keen rivalry can be seen by the fact that a large crowd will witness the struggle. The game will undoubtedly decide which team will be champions of the southeastern district of this state. If the locals can win, they only have to defeat Lake Mills, Jefferson and Port Atkinson as far as is known to enter the tournament at Appleton. Elimination games in this section will be very few from the present outlook, most of the teams having been already eliminated. Racine is the only team which has put in a claim, and if the locals play them, a good game can be assured on a neutral floor. It will be remembered that the locals trimmed them by a good score two years ago at Madison in an elimination game to the same tournament. That year the locals gained third place in the state.

A mass meeting was held today at the close of school in preparation for the Beloit game. The entire school remained at the meeting. The members of the team were called upon to give their version of the game and its probable outcome. Some interesting speeches were given. The lineup for tomorrow night will be as follows: Atwood, L. E.; Dalton, L. E.; Hemmings, C.; Edler, L. E.; Captain Falter, L. E.

Jim Flynn, the heavyweight of Pueblo, Colo., isn't likely to be seen in the ring again for some time—perhaps never again. He has just accepted terms to umpire baseball games in the Western league this coming season. Flynn has had a lot of experience as an umpire, and he seems to succeed better at this job than at fighting, though he says he's rather do the latter.

Doc Cook has not yet extended sympathy to Jim Thorpe, but if we remember correctly the good doctor also had some experience in that northern country which did not end pleasantly. He probably feels very deeply for the big Indian, but he's trying to keep in the background and therefore maintains a very great silence.

Nick Cullop, the southpaw pitcher recently purchased by the Cleveland Naps from New Orleans, is the most valuable minor leaguer graduated in 1912. Cullop goes to Cleveland with a label calling him the best pitcher who ever worked in the Southern league. No other graduate of that circuit ever brought so much money. The price paid for him was between $10,000 and $12,000.

In Jim Thorpe Manager McGraw of the Giants has a fine side attraction. Even with the big Indian, though, he is not half so well supplied as Manager Griffith of the Washington club. "Griff" not only has Schaefer and Altrock, first-rate comedians, but he also has signed up Calvo and Acosta, two Cubans who should prove drawing cards in 1913. Acosta is a 16-year-old boy, and if he's anything like the marvel he's touted to be he is sure to become popular around the American league circuit.

competitions in sport and athletics, rivaling in interest the Olympic games held in Stockholm last summer, was inaugurated here today under the patronage of the King of Sweden. The contests, known as the Northern Games of Stockholm, will continue ten days and will be participated in by lovers of winter sports from many of the countries of Europe.

The program of the meeting includes ski-running and skating in the Olympic Stadium, which has been transformed for the occasion into an immense skating rink surrounded by an amphitheatre seating 15,000 spectators. There will also be sailing on skates and ice-yachting, field shooting, military athletic competitions, prize jumping on horseback, and trotting contests for horses, motor races and swimming competitions.

In addition to these competitions the visitors will be given opportunities to enjoy winter hunting, sleighing and steamboat trips through the ice-far out to sea for the purpose of fishing in the archipelago.

AMERICAN ATHLETIC CLUB MEET DRAWS CHAMPIONS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

New York, Feb. 6.—Sold out before has an athletic meet in the metropolis attracted so many classy athletes as are entered for the annual carnival of sport of the Irish-American Athletic Club, at Madison Square Garden to-night. In addition to the cream of the athletic talent in the metropolitan district the entries include the star performers of Boston, Philadelphia and a number of other cities. Every kind of a champion is entered and in some of the events it will be champion against champion.

The 1,000-yard scratch race for the McAlleen trophy is the big event on the program. In it such great distance runners as Melvin Sheppard, Al Kiviat, Ed Davenport, T. E. Meredith and several others, any one of whom is capable of telling the distance near record time, are entered.

ANOTHER POSTPONMENT IN DEBATE DATE LIKELY

One Member of Beloit Team and Two Janesville Contestants are Ill. It is evident that the proposed scheduled debates with the Beloit high school will not take place for some time, although a definite date was recently announced. Now it is understood that a member of the Beloit team has the tonsillitis, while Russell Smiley and Stanley Judd of the local teams are laid up with sickness. If they improve within one week the debates will be held at the present understanding, on Feb. 14th. The debaters are anxious to have the contests staged, because in case of a victory it means that they are to discuss the same question two and possibly three times, which means that the team will not have completed the work required in order to win a title before May 1st.

The Theatre

gard hearty, wholesome laughter as a crime, speak up for Harry Askin, managing-director of the LaSalle Opera House, Chicago, wishes to write that individual a personal letter admonishing him to shun the theater on the night on which the original LaSalle Opera House company will present "The Girl at the Gate," which comes direct from a most successful season in Chicago. The book and lyrics of the piece are by Will M. Hough, of Hough and Adams fame, and Frederick Donaghey, part-author of "Louisiana Lou," while the music is by Ben M. Jerome. Can you beat such a combination? It is not necessary to mention the long string of successes behind the names of each of the above authors—the mention of their name should suffice the most skeptical that "The Girl at the Gate" will be highly enjoyed by all theatre-goers. Chicago critics, who are not noted for platitudes have lauded the LaSalle's latest offering.

If you should ask a Chicago theatre-goer what his by-word is for "the greatest, dancing, singing, looking girls" in the realm of musical comedy, he will not hesitate a second before replying, "LaSalle Opera House."

Aside from the numerous catchy tunes, the ninth-provoking situation, the very funny actors of the very funny parts, the beautiful scenic effect of the Panama Canal and San Francisco, "The Girl at the Gate" has a very dramatic plot which has to do with stolen fortification plans of the United States government. "And the World's All Wrong Again," a very pretty, sentimental love tune which is one of the musical numbers in this show, has fulfilled the mission for which the author intended it, namely, that of re-uniting quarrelsome sweethearts. As a heart-balm this song has no superior, while as laugh-producers the songs "Dreamy Day" sung by Cathryn Rowe Palmer, and "In Panama" sung by Herbert Corbell, have no equal.

"The Girl at the Gate," will be seen Myers Theatre Thursday, February 20th.

The Great American Play "Paid in Full"

"It is truly a great play." This is the estimate placed on Eugene Walter's "Paid in Full" by the Philadelphia North American, an opinion whose worth is multiplied by the fact that it was expressed in an editorial. Since the founding of the North American, a daily newspaper of vast influence and enormous circulation, only one play besides "Paid in Full" has been held of sufficient importance to

"Paid in Full" because of its enormous success, but its notable superiority as a play and the graphic accuracy with which it depicts the social conditions it deals with, commended it to the North American for special consideration.

"How many men are there," said this newspaper, "who have at one time in their lives fought the man higher up with his hand upon the pay roll? How many women, wives of these men, battling for their 'raise,' have consecrated their lives to lighting the good fight along with the men they love and have found their reward in the mere glory of the struggle. A great many, yes, a very great many. 'Paid in Full' in this economic theme, caught into final, appealing, gripping drama. It is one play out of a thousand."

C. S. Primrose will present this play, the biggest and the most popular success in years, at the Myers theatre, Sunday, February 17, Matinee and evening, and with a cast of exceptional excellence. "Paid in Full" has the brilliant record of a two years' run in New York, and every member of the cast that will be seen here has won applause on Broadway. The quality of the company lends added luster to the event which from every point of view is the most attractive feature of the theatrical season. To see this great play acted by a brilliant New York cast is something not to be overlooked.

BATTLING NELSON WALLOPS SORENSON AT RACINE BOUT

Hegeswich Bridgegroom Has Better of Argument Throughout Nine Rounds.

Racine, Wis., Feb. 6.—Batting Nelson "came back" last night and beat Jack Sorenson of Racine in a ten round encounter here. Sorenson's gameness and ability to regain lost wind during the intermissions was all that prevented a knockout. Four times, once in the first, twice in the fourth and once in the fifth, the Battler floored Sorenson for the count of nine, the last time aiding him to his feet.

Everything went Nelson's way from the start. Sorenson's ability to hug and hold Batt's mitts being all that saved him.

In the semi-finals Bobby William of Kenosha, lost to Billy Kautz, of Racine, in six rounds. The second bout resulted in the defeat of Kid Church, Chicago, by Peter Childs, Racine, in six rounds. In the opener Andrew Matson shaded Young Kastube in four rounds.

RECALL LITIGATION*AT NO COST TO CITY*SAYS MAYOR FATHERS

City Attorney to Defend Opinions
Handed Down by Him and City
Clerk—Taxpayers Not Burdened.

"Janesville taxpayers will not be burdened with any expense for litigation if the attempt is made by the signers of the recall petitions to have the courts declare the petitions legally drawn and compel the calling of an election," said Mayor Fathers this morning in commenting on the action of City Clerk Hammarlund in throwing out the recall petitions.

The council can take no official cognizance of the petitions until the city clerk certifies them as being sufficient. If the recall supporters compel the city to go into court to defend the action of the clerk the city attorney will represent the city, and should it be found advisable to engage additional counsel that expense will be borne by the members of the council personally.

The city has not nor will it be put to an expense by such litigation. "That he could be willing to receive proof that the two hundred and forty signatures on the recall petitions rejected as non-voters were those of voters was the reply made by City Clerk Hammarlund yesterday afternoon to a special committee of the recall supporters who inquired if he would receive affidavits from them in evidence.

According to the law creating the commission form of government provision is made for the amendment of petitions declared insufficient, either by the addition of signatures or otherwise. Proof that the rejected signatures are bona-fide would not, however, make the petitions acceptable; objections no less grave, insufficiency of charges and the calling of one election for three members of the council at one time remain to be overcome.

A legal battle on these mooted points now seems assured. The recall promoters have decided to file affidavits that the signers held to be non-voters are qualified electors, and on the refusal of the city clerk to accept the petitions after such proof, their attorneys will at once start court proceedings. The services of Miss Nora Gately, a former court reporter, were secured to make a list of the signatures not accepted, to be used in securing the affidavits promised.

Wednesday afternoon the recall petitioners representatives visited the city hall and made a copy of the list of names that City Clerk Hammarlund held defective. Before doing this they filed the following statement with the city clerk on the situations:

To J. P. Hammarlund, City Clerk of the City of Janesville:—
Dear Sir:—
In your third specification of objections to the petition filed with you for the recall of Councilman Roy M. Cummings of the city of Janesville, you state: "I further certify that upon careful investigation as to the electoral qualifications of the signers upon this petition, I find therein two hundred and forty (240) names of persons whose names do not appear upon any poll or registration list in said City of Janesville; that I am unable to ascertain from any information obtainable that the persons bearing these names are electors in said city, and that for that reason I find they are not electors and are not entitled to be considered in determining the sufficiency of the petitions. These two hundred and forty (240) names are on file and listed in my office and indicated by mark upon the petition herewith certified and are not here set forth at length for that reason."

Now, therefore, we the undersigned, being three of the persons who signed said petition for the recall of said city of Janesville, hereby request you to specify the names of the persons to whom you refer as being the persons whose names do not appear upon any poll list, or registration list of said city; and we now here offer to present to you, by affidavit or otherwise, as you may specify, reasonable proof that the persons whose names you object to were, at the time they signed said petition, entitled to vote for a successor to the said Roy M. Cummings, Councilman of said city.

We, therefore, respectfully ask you to specify the nature of proof you will require to show that the persons to whom you object, were, at the time they signed the said petition, entitled to vote for a successor to said Roy M. Cummings; and we now here state to you that we are ready, willing and able to present any reasonable proof you may require to establish the fact that the said two hundred and forty (240) signers, to whom you object, because their names are not found on any poll or registration list of said city, were duly qualified to vote for a successor to said Roy M. Cummings, at the time they signed said petition.

Dated February 5, 1913.

FRANK M. ROACH TO*MOVE TO JANESVILLE

Member of County Board From Harmony Has Purchased a Home on South Jackson Street.

Frank M. Roach, for a number of years a member of the county board from the town of Harmony, has purchased the residence of Karl A. Wetzler, 542 South Jackson street, and will move to this city some time next month. This means that Mr. Roach will sever his connections with the county board and his township will have a new representative at the April session. For the past twenty years Mr. Roach has served his township in various capacities, both as chairman of the town board and as town treasurer. He has been prominent in his work with the county board and has served on several important committees, being a member of the highway committee and of the special committee to investigate the matter of a county tuberculosis sanitarium.

Mr. Roach will not sell his farm, but has made arrangements to have it worked during the coming year by his two oldest sons. He has two daughters working in this city at present who will make their home with their parents.

BIDS RECEIVED TODAY*FOR COUNTY ROAD ROLLER

At a meeting of Committee No. 6 of the county board on highways, composed of B. D. Treadway, Beloit, and Phil. Roach, Harmony, at the county clerk's office today, bids for a new county road roller were submitted by representatives of three firms. The committee which reserves the right to reject all bids, had not announced their decision up to three o'clock.

These sermons are delivered with a desire to give a wider conception of the kingdom as it is outlined in the New Testament, and of making all of those who hear feel that the ethics of the New Testament must play a larger part among men if ever that kingdom is realized.

The subjects will be as follows: Feb. 9th.—What is Socialism? Its Growth; Its Spirit and Goal; Is it a fancy that can be destroyed by sneers and threats? Feb. 16th.—What is the source of its strength. In what kind of soil has it been nourished? What is the justice of its contention? Feb. 23rd.—What has socialism accomplished? The two lines along which it moves—Revolution and Evolution. Which is the most to be feared? March 2nd.—The Weakness of Socialism. Some things which it does not take sufficiently into account. Wherein it must ultimately fail. These sermons are delivered with a desire to give a wider conception of the kingdom as it is outlined in the New Testament, and of making all of those who hear feel that the ethics of the New Testament must play a larger part among men if ever that kingdom is realized.

TEN CENT DECLINE IN PRICE OF HOGS

Trade is Slow and Dull Today With Decided Slump in Market's Average—Sheep Higher.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—There was a slump of ten cents in the price of hogs on the market this morning and trade continued dull throughout the day. Only a few loads brought as high as $7.85 while the majority of sales were around $7.65.

Sheep had a good market with prices ten cents up. Receipts were light at 12,000. Cattle held steady with a fair demand. Quotations are as follows:

What Cures Eczema?

We have had so many inquiries lately regarding Eczema and other skin diseases, that we are glad to make our answer public. After careful investigation we have found that a simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, as compounded in D.D.D. Prescription, can be relied upon. We would not make this statement unless we were sure of it, and although there are many so-called Eczema remedies sold, we ourselves unhesitatingly recommend D.D.D. Prescription.

Drop into our store today and let us tell you how we back our opinion with a money-back guarantee. Ask us also about D.D.D. Soap; it helps.

Mr. Farmer

How about your Dairy Cows? Are you getting all you can out of them in Milk and Butter Fat and still keeping them in good health? If not, you are losing money and like every good business man must look for a remedy.

The enormous crops of Oats, Corn, Barley, etc., this season have made grain prices so low that farmers do not care to sell and are grinding these feeds and using them as milk producers. They do not like to sell these heavy feeds and pay even a little more for feeds that are much richer in Protein. They know the value of Oil Meal and Bran as milk producers but only the more progressive farmers have nerve enough to have one load ground, and trade ear corn or barley for another load of high protein feed at a higher price. It takes nerve to try it but once started it comes easy.

To Get the Largest Flow of Milk

you must balance your silage and grain feed with a protein food. The balanced ration is getting results for many farmers every day and it will do the same for you. Costs you only a small amount in money and time to try it and may give you the Profit you have wanted.

Our WHEAT BRAN contains 14.5 to 15.2 per cent protein and also furnishes bulk when fed with corn meal or ground barley. This is the best bran we can buy.

Our OLD PROCESS OIL MEAL contains 32 to 35 per cent protein and gives you a higher amount of protein for the money than any other feed on the market for dairy cows.

OIL MEAL AND BRAN mixed with your other grain rations will more than pay you.

You can get high protein Bran Oil Meal, Midds, Salt, etc., at the "Farmers' Rest" Hitch Barn or at our store or elevator at lowest possible prices. We buy your grain, timothy seed, etc., at highest prices.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat
BY RUTH CAMERON

WHO IS TO BLAME?

A FEW weeks ago some neighbors of mine received a visit from a young relative who is just at the most foolish school girl age. She is a very talkative young person and chatters continually, saying all the silly, extravagant, ridiculous things that school girls love to say, and saying them in a loud tone and with much noisy laughter.

Her aunt and cousins, who are all much older than she, were totally excluded from the conversation, but instead of trying to quiet her they laughed continually at her nonsense, and if by any chance she did say a bright thing now and then, repeated it to each other and to their visitors.

I was calling there one day after this guest had gone, and her aunt apologized for her. "She is a bright girl, but she is spoiled," she said. "Her manners are atrocious, and the way she monopolized the conversation was terrible. She says some bright things, but so many silly ones. I hope she will improve in the next few years."

If I had dared I should certainly have told the solicitous relative one thing, and that is, that her little niece will not improve if she is with people who treat her as she does.

Why should she change? Why shouldn't she keep on saying silly things when she gets the reward of attention and laughter for all the nonsense she cares to perpetrate?

Almost all abnormal development in any member of society is partly the fault of some other member or members who permit or encourage it.

When you find a spoiled child you can know there is a spoiling mother in the background; when you find an excessively vain man you can know there is some woman feeding him vanity.

And those who encourage by laughter, when they ought to rebuke by disapproval or at least by silence, are partly to blame for the faults they help to develop.

One of the finest girls I ever knew had one very bad habit—she would make fun, and sometimes most unkind fun, of any and everybody. Of course it was wrong of her, and yet I always felt it was just as much our fault, for she was very clever and witty in her sarcasm, and we always spurred her on by laughing at her and applauding her.

Again and again I have heard the very girls who had been urging her on, speak disparagingly of Barbara's sharp tongue the moment they were out of earshot. And I used to hold inwardly—and sometimes hold over too,—at the two-faced injustice of them. What right had they who had given the approval of their laughter to blame her? None whatever.

Laughter and applause are as powerful as stimulants and sense destroyers as champagne or brandy, and those who offer them to others are partly responsible for the unfortunate results they create.

TALKS WITH MOTHERS

By GERTRUDE STEVENS AYEES.

Preparations for the Expected Child.

Many times have young women come to me with the inquiry: "What would you advise in preparation for the coming of a baby?" Invariably my answer has been, "First and most important."

HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

in your surroundings; second, as much training as health and time, and opportunity allow in actually watching and caring for infants of various ages and temperaments; third and last, a sensible preparation in way of necessities for the little stranger's comfort.

Most decidedly your preparation, in line of health should have begun long years before.

CLEAN, HEALTHY BODIES

should be one of the essentials in all marriages. The movement to require health certificates before uniting a man and woman in wedlock is a decided step in the right direction. Thus might be averted many an unhappy marriage and many a sickly child. When the wisest way has been determined to present sex hygiene to our boys and girls as a part of their education, healthier bodies must result. Perhaps you have never before thought of health in relation to possible children, but aim now to do all you can for the baby that is soon to be yours.

THE DOCTOR.

After careful inquiry among friends who are mothers, select your doctor. It may or may not be the one you have regularly employed. Much depends on the judgment and nerve of your physician. Go to him or her, as the case may be, and discuss your condition candidly and entirely. By "entirely," I mean making a clean statement of any inherited or acquired tendencies to disease in yourself or husband. A wise physician can do much to guard and guide you.

DIET.

Eat plain, wholesome, nourishing food. Avoid tea, coffee and other stimulants, excessive use of salt, too much meat and rich desserts. Eat fruit three times a day if you can, especially oranges and grapefruit; eat only once a day and less frequently if you feel just as well without. Don't think you must necessarily increase the amount of nutrition. If you are healthy, you probably are eating all your digestive organs can take care of, and more than enough means a tired stomach.

EXERCISE

Walk every day in the open air, if it is only to do your marketing. Don't, even at the last, confine yourself indoors just from foolish ideas regarding your appearance. If the season permits, a garden furnishes excellent opportunity for exercise in playing and the position taken in planting and weeding is a good one. Have just as pretty a maternity gown as your circumstances will allow, and discard corsets and tight bands at an early date, having all clothing suspended from the shoulders. Keep your mind well occupied with pleasant things, even if that requires an effort of the will. Read some from a good book daily, have copies of one or more noted pictures to feast your eye upon. And gladden your life with as many flowers and as much music as possible.

store near by. I MAKE IT A RULE to do nearly all my housework in the forenoon—baking, cleaning, sweeping and most of my errands. Have four in family, do all my own work, can 200 quarts of fruit and vegetables, etc. This leaves me most of the afternoon for sewing, reading and calling on my friends. I also prepare vegetables, desserts, etc., for supper in the forenoon as much as possible.

Before I did this I was at work in kitchen any time of day and work was never done. Now I can have my afternoon and evenings and find time to do the many little things I never used to get at.

Mulled Buttermilk. Take strictly fresh buttermilk, put a pint in double boiler and stir it constantly until very hot; add yolk of one egg well beaten and take from fire immediately.

This will be found good for feverish patients, allaying both thirst and hunger.

Something new; try it.

Salted Popcorn. Put one teaspoon lard, one ear of popcorn in skillet; pop in usual way. When done, salt to taste. Stir well and serve.

Homemade Syrup. Put one cup granulated sugar in pan on stove; let it bubble up brown; put one-half cup boiling water on sugar, stir well and let boil. Makes a pure syrup, almost like maple, but not so expensive.

WINTER SPECIALTIES.

This is a recipe for baked onions that will do to serve company: Melt two tablespoonsful of butter, add two tablespoonsful of flour, a half teaspoonful of salt, one and a half cups of cream or chicken stock, four tablespoonsful of soft bread crumbs and a tablespoonful of chopped parsley. Boil five minutes, add a well-beaten egg and a dozen medium-sized onions which have been parboiled. Cool and add the beaten whites of the eggs and bake fifteen minutes in a hot oven.

Boiled Dinner.—Cook a three-pound piece of corned beef with a small piece of pork for two hours, then add a cabbage head, turnips, a few carrots, and cook until tender.

A small sack of cranberry beans which have been soaked over night and put to cook when the meat is put on will make a most acceptable addition to the dish.

Boiled Mutton.—Take two and a half pounds of mutton from the shoulder or leg. Remove all bone and add two pints of boiling water; salt some chopped carrots, celery, onion, a dash of pepper and eight or ten uncooked potatoes, sliced. Cook slowly for an hour or two. When ready to serve take out the meat and slice.

St. James Pudding.—This is a simple, delicious pudding without an egg. Melt three tablespoonsful of butter, add a half cup of molasses, a half cup of milk, one and two-thirds cups of flour, a half teaspoonful of soda, salt, a half teaspoonful each of clove, allspice, nutmeg and a half pound of dates cut in fine pieces. Steam in pound baking powder cans for two and one-half hours.

WALKING ON AN EMPTY STOMACH.

"Is it injurious to walk on an empty stomach?" a reader asks. If one has been in the habit of eating an early morning breakfast before doing much physical work, any variation from this will be followed by more or less unpleasant feelings, but this will gradually disappear. It has long been my habit to go for a walk of eight or ten miles at five o'clock on Sunday morning and always without eating anything. One can always walk better on an empty stomach, after one becomes adapted to the omitting of breakfast. The energy that is required for digestion can not be at the same time used for muscular or mental effort. When there is an ample supply of muscle sugar in the tissues, which is made from carbohydrate foods, the best work can be done on an empty stomach. No athlete would think of going into a contest on a full stomach.

cause he wants to kiss me. Is it wrong to kiss when you are engaged?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My cheeks, neck and shoulders are so thin. What can I do to improve myself so I can wear low necked dresses. I haven't much bust development. Can I do anything to develop the bust?

SKINNY. Massaging with cocoa butter or any good skin food is said to be good. I think it helps. But what will help more than anything is to eat plenty of good nourishing food, drink milk and cocoa and at least three pints of pure water each day, and learn to breathe deep, with plenty of outdoor exercise.

Sing about your work and don't worry, if you want to stop being skinny.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: A boy friend of mine, aged 27, has fallen in love with a girl of 17. They kept company about three months. She seemed devoted to him more so than he to her. Through a misunderstanding they quit each other. He went with another girl once, then did not go with any.

Then the first girl tried to make up but he would not. Then he wanted to make up and she would not. He claims he did not love her until they quit. She had been leading him on all the time until then. She is going with another boy now, but does not seem to care much for him. I told my friend to let her alone, but he says he will not. What would you advise him?

SOMEWHAT PERPLEXED. Better not advise him at all. The girl's feelings have probably been very much hurt, and possibly the young man is only getting what he deserves. It's up to him to make all the advances now.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am engaged to a young man, but my mother objects to my going out with him. He

Appreciating Mother

MOTHER would like to put me under a glass shade like a young melon," said the girl, impatiently, as her mother called to her to come back from a point of vantage on the mountain side.

"She won't let me do this, and she is afraid of my doing that. She doesn't give me a minute's peace."

"She is so venturesome," said the mother apologetically, "she just keeps me nervous all the time, by the way she goes into dangerous places."

"Come here, Tom," called a mother, "I want you."

"For goodness sake!" replied the boy irritably, "Can't you leave me alone a minute?"

And every where, as we go about the world, do we hear these expostulations from the young folks.

Isn't it a pity that they can't see and can't appreciate the mother-love that is back of this watchful oversight.

Some mothers do carry the sense of oversight too far. But even when extreme, it is still a form of mother-love, and if rightly understood, life has little to give that is more beautiful.

But children, and some whose years have passed the childish span, seldom appreciate it at its true worth.

And they are losing by this lack of appreciation, as well as is the mother.

Cannot the mother, and ought she not, early to teach her children to appreciate this great and beautiful power in life?

A mother gives freely of herself, of her life. She expects appreciation, she craves it, and often she is sorely wounded that she does not get the return that she feels she ought to have. But she is often too modest, too self-depreciatory to do ought but give—and hope.

But should she not teach the value of what she is giving?

Children can hardly be expected to appreciate the pricelessness of mother-love. They are born into it, and they take it for granted; and often it is not until the unselfish love and the ministering hand are gone, that they wake up to what they have lost. They never appreciate the treasure they have had until it has vanished.

And not appreciating, they miss much. And the mother misses much. And much of the pure gold of life is never used, by either, as currency.

Neither this girl nor this boy would have felt or spoken as they did, had there been an understanding and an appreciation of the mother-love back of the mother's demand. They might still feel that there was undue interference, but they would have expressed this without bitterness or impatience. Mother and child would have amicably worked out their difference of opinion, and come lovingly to a settlement. And both lives would have been richer and happier, not only then, but all the time, for such an understanding of each other.

In any community, organized on healthy lines, the average woman will have quite enough to do in her own home, whether she is rich or poor. Nowhere else can she do work of such value to the nation."—Roosevelt.

Women are steadily advancing along the line of better and more wholesome living and cooking and household efficiency. They are becoming "gases" cooking and attaining more system and accuracy in all that pertains to the scientific art. As a result the work is no longer drudgery, the food is better cooked and failures are rare.

No matter what your judgment or experience may be, in order to have a recipe give perfect results always—with conditions and material equal—there are certain measures and weights which must be followed. A half pint measuring cup may be purchased at any hardware or department store for a few cents and is indispensable for all reliable recipes. It is marked off in halves, quarters and thirds, which makes the measuring easy and quick. Level measurements only are recognized in all the domestic science schools and cooking authorities. Flour sifted before measuring. Round the spoonful is heaped up over the top to correspond with the bowl of the spoon below.

One cup—One-half pint or measuring cup.
One cup of butter—One-half pound.
Two cups sifted flour—One-half pound.
One pint—One pound.
One gill—One-fourth pint or one-half cup.
Four teaspoonfuls—One-fourth cup.
One rounding teaspoonful flour—One-half cup.
One rounding teaspoonful sugar—One cup.
One rounding teaspoonful butter—One cup.

The above is a small guide in measuring materials for a recipe, but after that is done there must be some guide for the reduction of heat to the article made. This has made the slowest progress in all cooking science. Thermometers are not recognized as a success by manufacturers. Oven temperature is difficult to get and have perfectly accurate, unless cooking by electricity. So the temperatures I am giving are only approximate and can only be determined by trying repeatedly, until you know your own oven.

Methods of Applying Heat.
Broiling—Cooking over coals or under gas, bright heat at first to sear the outside, for developing flavors and retaining juices; then lower temperature for the heat to penetrate and to avoid burning. Time determined by thickness of meat.

Pan broiling—Cooking in a hot steel spider, turning often so as not to fry.

Baking—Cooking in oven by heated air and radiation.
Slow oven 270 to 350 degrees F.
Moderate oven 350 to 400 degrees F.
Quick oven 400 to 450 degrees F. (Temperature taken by oven thermometer.)

Boiling—Cooking in boiling water 212 degrees F.

Steaming—Cooking in water at temperature of 180 to 190 degrees F.

Stewing—Cooking in steam in contact with 212 degrees F.

How to Have the Best Cough Syrup and Save $2, by Making It at Home.

Cough medicines, as a rule, contain a large quantity of plain syrup. If you take one pint of granulated sugar, add 12 pints of warm water and stir about 2 minutes, you have as good syrup as money could buy.

If you will then put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (30 cents worth) in a pint bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup, you will have as much cough syrup as you could buy ready made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly.

And you will find it the best cough syrup you ever used—even in whooping cough. You can feel it take hold—usually stops the most severe cough in 24 hours. It is just laxative enough to have a good tonic effect, and taste is pleasant. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

It is a splendid remedy, too, for whooping cough, croup, hoarseness, asthma, chest pains, etc.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in quinine and all the healing pine elements. No other preparation will work in this formula.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup is now used and prized in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan is often being imitated but never successfully.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

TWO WOMEN SAVED FROM OPERATIONS

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Their Own Stories Here Told.

Beatrice, Neb.—"Just after my marriage my left side began to pain me and the pain got so severe at times that I suffered terribly with it. I visited three doctors and each one wanted to operate on me but I would not consent to an operation. I heard of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was doing for others and I used several bottles of it with the result that I haven't been bothered with my side since then. I am in good health and I have two little girls."—Mrs. R. B. CHILDS, Beatrice, Neb.

The Other Case.

Cary, Maine.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation, but my husband thought I had better write to you and I did so, stating my symptoms. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Cary, Maine.

The STOLEN SINGER

by MARTNA BELLINGER

COPYRIGHT 1911 THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

"O Rendu—Hand!" she cried, but the driver made no sign. "Help, help!" she shrieked, but the cry was instantly choked into a feeble protest. A mass of something, pressed to her mouth and nostrils, incited her to superhuman efforts. She struggled frantically, and succeeded in getting her head for an instant at the opening, while she clutched her assailant and held him helpless. But only for a moment. The firm large hand quickly overpowered even the strength induced by frenzy, and in another minute she was lying unresisting on the soft cushions of the tonneau.

The car careened through the streets, the figure of the unresponsive Hand mocked her cries for help, the neat hard face of the stranger continued to bend over her. Then everything swam in a maelstrom of duller and duller sense, the world grew darker and fainter, till finally it was lost in silence.

CHAPTER II.

Hambleton of Lynn.

The Hambletons of Lynn had not distinguished themselves, in late generations at least, by remarkable deeds, though their deportment was such as to imply that they could if they would. They frankly regarded themselves as the elect of earth, if not of Heaven, always, however, with a becoming modesty. Since 1636 the family had placed out its existence in the New World, tenaciously clinging to many of its old-country habits. It had kept the "b" in the family name, for instance; it had kept the name itself out of trade, and it had indulged its love of country life at the expense of more than one Hambleton fortune.

A daughter-in-law was once reported as saying that it would have been a good thing if some Hambleton had embarked in trade, since in that case they might have been saved from devoting themselves exclusively to an illustration of polite poverty. She was never forgiven, and died without being reconciled to the family. As to the spelling of the name, the family claimed ancestral authority as far back as King Fergus the First. Mrs. Van Camp, a relative by marriage—a woman considered by the best Hambletons as far too frank and worldly-minded—informed the family that King Fergus was as much a myth as Dido, and innocently brought forth printed facts to corroborate her statement. One of the ladies Hambleton crushed Mrs. Van Camp by stating, in a tone of deep personal conviction, with her cap awry, "So much the worse for Dido!"

A salient strength persisted in the Hambletons—a strength which retained its character in spite of cross-currents. The Hambleton tone and the Hambleton ideas retained their family color, and became, whether worthily or not, a part of the Hambleton pride. More than one son had lost his health or entire fortune, which was apt not to be large, in attempts to carry on a country place. "A Hambleton trait!" they chuckled, with as much satisfaction as they considered it good form to exhibit. In Lynn, where family pride did not bring in large returns, this phrase became almost synonymous with genteel foolishness.

The Van Camp fortune, which came near but never actually into the family, was generally understood to have been made in shoes, though in reality it was drugs.

"People say 'shoes' the minute they hear the word Lynn, and I'm tired of explaining," Mrs. Van Camp put it. She was third in line from the successful druggist, and could afford, if anybody could, to be supercilious toward trade. But she wasn't, even after twenty years of somewhat restless submission to the Hambleton yoke. And it was she who, during her last visit to the family stronghold, held up before the young James the advantages of a commercial career.

"You're a nice boy, Jimmy, and I can't see you turned into a poor lawyer. You're not hard-headed enough to be a good one. As for being a minister, well—no. Go into business, dear boy, something substantial, and you'll live to thank your stars."

Jimmy received this advice at the time with small enthusiasm, and a reservation of criticism that was a credit to his manners, at least. But the time came when he leaned on it.

Her own child, however, Mrs. Van Camp encouraged to a profession from the first. "Alec! Isn't smart enough for business, but he may do something as a student," was Mrs. Van Camp's somewhat trying explanation; and Alec did do something as a student. Extremely impatient with any exhibition of laziness, the mother demanded a good accounting of her son's time. Alec and Jim, who were born in the same year, ran more or less side by side until the end of college. They struggled together in sports and in arguments, "rushed" the same girl in turn or simultaneously, and spent their long vacations cruising up and down the Maine coast in a thirty-foot sail-boat. Once they made a more ambitious journey all the way to Yarmouth and the Bay of Fundy in a good-sized fishing-smack. But when college was done, their ways separated. Mrs. Van Camp, in the prime of her unusual faculties, having decorated the Hambleton scutecheon like a gay cockade stuck airily up into the breeze. She had no part nor lot in the family pride, but understood it, perhaps, better than the Hambletons themselves. Her crime was that she played with it. Alec, a full-fledged biologist, went to the Little Hebrides to work out his fresh and salad theory concerning the nerve system of the clam.

James, third son of John and Edith Hambleton of Lynn, had his eyes thoroughly opened in the three months after Commencement by a consideration of the family situation. It seemed to him that from babyhood he had been burningly conscious of the pinching and skimping necessary to maintain the family pride. The two older brothers were exempt from the scorching process, the eldest being the family darling and the second a genius. Neither one could rationally be expected, "just at present," to take up the family accounts and make the income square up with even a decently generous outgo. And there were the girls yet to be educated. Jim had no special talent to bless himself with, either in art or science. He was inordinately fond of the sea, but that did not help him in choosing a career. He had good taste in books and some little skill in music. He was, indeed, thrall to the human voice, especially to the low voice in woman, and he was that best of all critics, a good listener. His greatest riches, as well as his greatest charm, lay in a spirit of invincible youth; but he was no genius, no one perceived that more clearly than himself.

Camp's advice, wrote the whole story to Alec, and cast about for the one successful business chance in the four thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine bad ones—as the statistics have it.

He actually found it in shoes. Foot-bull muscle and grit went into the job of putting superior shoes on inferior feet, if necessary—at least on some feet. He got a chance to try his powers in the home branch of a manufacturing house, and made good. When he came to fill a position where there was opportunity to try new ideas, he tried them. He inspected tanneries and stockyards. He got composite measurements of all the feet in all the women's colleges in the year ninety-seven, he drilled salesmen and opened a night school for the buttonhole-makers, he made scientific study of heels, and he invented an aristocratic arch and put it on the market.

The family joked about his doings as the harmless experiments of a lively boy, but presently they began to enjoy his income. Through it all they were affectionate and kind, with the matter-of-course fondness which a family gives to the members that takes the part of useful drudge. John, the pet of the parents, married, and had his own eyes opened, it is to be supposed. Donald, the genius, had just arrived, after a dozen years or so, at the stage where he was mentioned now and then in the literary journals. But Jim stuck to shoes and kept the family on a fair tide of modest prosperity.

Once, in the years of Jim's apprenticeship to life, there came over him a fit of soul-sickness that nearly proved his ruin.

"I can't stand this," he wrote to Alec Van Camp; "it's too hard and dry and sordid for any man that's got a soul. It isn't the grind I mind, though that is bar enough; it is the 'Commercial Idea' that eats into a man's innards. He forgets there are things that money can't buy, and in his heart he grows contemptuous of anything to be had 'without money and without price.' He can't help it. If he is thinking of trade nine-tenths of the time, his mind gets set that way. I'm ready any minute to jump the fence, like father's old cock up on the farm. I'm not a snob, but I recognize now that there was some reason for all our old Hambleton ancestors being so finicky about trade."

"Do you remember how we used to talk, when we were kiddies, about keeping our ideals? Well, I believe I'm bankrupt, Alec. In my account with ideals, I don't want to howl, and these remarks don't go with anybody else, but I can say to you, I want them back again."

Alec did as a kiddle should do, writing much advice on long sheets of paper, and illustrating his points richly, like a good Scotchman, with scientific instances. A month or two later he contrived to have work to do in Boston, so that he could go out to Lynn and look up Jimmy's case. He even devised a cure by creating, in his mind, an office in the biological world which was to be offered to James on the ground that science needed just his abilities and training. But when Alec arrived in Lynn he found that Jim, in some fashion or other, had found a cure for himself. He was deeper than ever in the business, and yet, in some spiritual sense, he had found himself. He had captured his ideal again and yoked it to duty—which is a great feat.

After twelve years of ferocious labor, with no vacations to speak of, James' mind took a turn for the worse. Physically he was as sound as a bell, though of lath-like thinness; but an effervescing in his blood turned his mind away from the study of lasts and accounts and Parisian models and sent it careering, like Satan, up and down the earth. Romance, which had been dragged during the transition from youth to manhood, awoke and tempted in an ear not yet dulled to its voice. Freedom, open spaces, laughter, the fresh sweep of the wind, the high buccannery piracy of life and joy—these things begloured his senses.

So one day he locked his desk with a final click. The business was in good shape. It is but justice to say that if it had not been, Romance had dangled her luring wisp of light in vain. Several of his new schemes had worked out well, his subordinates were of one mind with him, trade was flourishing. He felt he could afford a little spin.

Jimmy's radiating fancies focussed themselves, at last, on the vision of a tiny little sail-boat, "a jug of wine, a loaf of bread" in the cabin, with possibly a book of verses underneath the bow, or more suitably, in the shadow of the sail; and Alec Van Camp and himself astrid in the rigging or plunging together from the gunwale for an early swim. "And before I get off, I'll hear a singer that can sing," he declared.

She Knows.

"You never thank a man for giving you a seat in a street car." "Not any more," replied Miss Cayenne. "I used to until I noticed that almost invariably he was going to get out at the next corner anyhow."

BY SISTERS OF HOLY CROSS

Endorsement of Father John's Medicine as a Tonic and Body Builder. Cures Colds and Lung Troubles.

This is one of the many letters we have received from hospitals and institutions all over Canada and the United States:—"We cheerfully recommend Father John's Medicine as a good remedy for bronchial troubles and as a tonic and body builder for those who are weak and run down. Several persons of our institution have used it with beneficial results." (Signed) Sisters of Holy Cross, 44 Chandler St., Nashua, N. H. Not a "cough syrup" or a patent medicine with weakening stimulants, but a food medicine—the prescription of an eminent specialist. Cures colds and all throat troubles.

Stop That Cough In A Minute

Would you give morphine or chloroform to your baby or take it yourself? Of course not. Yet most patent cough cures contain one or both. They stop a cough in a minute which is dangerous. A cough should be cured internally by healing the lungs, loosening the phlegm, throwing it out, which is done by coughing. Badger Cough Balsam does not contain morphine or chloroform. It is made by perspiration from bloodroot, lobelia, pine bark, wild cherry, etc. It cures a cough in a few days without filling the lungs with poisonous phlegm. The irritation is relieved, the lungs healed without danger of pneumonia. Get a bottle today for 25 cents. Badger Cough Balsam is made by Mr. Pfennig, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist. Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River Sts.

THE DAILY NOVELLETTE

DESPERATION
Up and down and back and forth, East and west, south and north. The village smithy stands. Three times and a half, with his hands and wrists behind his back, he paced the length of the room. Twice he paced the breadth. It was a square room.

"Heav'n help me," he groaned. "Tis the only course." (Were it not entirely out of place, "course work" would be a rather neat observation here.) He strode to his desk. Pressing one of the levers, a secret drawer flew open.

In another instant a revolver was in his hand. Starting in the middle of the room, he pressed the revolver to his temple.

"The only course!" he fairly screamed. "The only course!" A figure in the corner of the room stirred and the woman spoke. "Rotten!" she commented. "But if the audience will stand for it, I admit I wrote the play."

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Feb. 6, 1872.—The skirmish at the Union House stable, yesterday afternoon, in which the hostler, struck a man across the face with a spade, resulted in another short battle which will doubtless bring trouble upon two or three of our German citizens. Officer Smith went to the Union House to arrest the hostler and was assaulted by the proprietor and two other men who prevented the officer from performing his duty. The entire party will be brought up to answer the court's charges, Monday afternoon. The case was adjourned until that time meanwhile the defendants are out on $500 bail.

A follow came to town today with his girl, to attend the oratorio of Esther, and learned to his dismay, that it does not occur until next week. But he was bound to have some fun to pay him for his trip, and as there was nothing in the way of amusements to give him relief, he took the young lady friend into the doctor's office and had her vaccinated. It cost him two shillings and we are under the impression that he will not attend the coming entertainment.

A couple of young ladies were insulted because the minister won't let them play cards in the back seat and they positively refuse to attend any more revival meetings.

Scarlet fever prevails to an unusual extent.

DIPPY-DOPE If a farmer piles his wood what will the hoystack? Or if a duke can't box do you think an oil can?
